What to Do About America's Workforce Shortage

Tumeric is as Powerful as 14 Other Drugs

Our county is facing major labor shortages that have resulted in entire industries slowing production because they don't have the labor force to move at their standard pace.

Tumeric has been the topic of over 12,000 peer-reviewed and published medical studies. Research reveals that tumeric has over 800 potential preventative and therapeutic uses.

This has resulted in significant price increases on items like cars, furniture and appliances, among other things.

In 2022, more than 50 million US workers left their jobs - the most ever recorded in the history of Job Openings and Labor Turnover survey. What does all that mean?

1. There are more job openings than people to fill them
2. The number of people who have opted out of the job market is at an all time high

Experts believe that the COVID pandemic created a lot of strange patterns. Many exited the workforce due to fear, illness or having to take care of a child or family member. The issue is that they have not returned. It appears some workers tucked away enough stimulus checks and unemployment benefits to postpone re-entering the workforce.

In February 2023, the US labor force participation rate was 62.5%, the lowest it has been in almost 50 years.

As an employer or owner, you can still succeed by building a network with other business owners, letting your circle of influence know you're hiring, taking your time in the hiring process, being a person you would want to work for, and staying grateful for what you do have.

- A 1999 study found the saffron-colored pigment called cur- cumin compared favorably to steroids to treat inflammation.
- a 2011 study found it compared to drugs like Prozac to treat depression.
- A 1986 study found it compared to aspirin.
- A 2004 study found it is an effective alternative for anti-inflammatory drugs like aspirin, ibuprofen and naproxen.
- A 2007 study found it compared favorably with a drug used for chemotherapy.
- A 2009 study found it may be valuable in treating diabetes.

Tumeric is used both as a food and medicine. There is a strong argument to use it as a drug alternative.

What To Look for In a Document Shredding Contractor

Finding a document shredding vendor is an important decision. The confidentiality and security of your documents are a huge concern. Here are some important factors when selecting your shredding company:

- Check Certifications - Ask whether they are NAID AAA Certified (National Association for Information Destruction). This important certification guarantees that the company you select abides by stringent security and confidentiality standards such as announced and unannounced audits.
- Check The Shredding Process - Ask questions to confirm the chain of custody and the security of your documents. A company that offers on-site shredding offers more security as the documents are shred before they leave your facility and fewer people have access to them. Confirm drivers have undergone background checks.
- Check Insurance - Confirm whether they carry general liability insurance, errors and omissions and cyber insurance.
- Check On-Line Reviews - Confirm their on-line reputation. Google reviews are a great place to do this.
- Compare Pricing - The best company is probably not the cheapest one since proper business practices can be costly. Compare prices.
- Check The Recycling Process - Check what the shredding company does with the shredded paper and confirm they recycle it to help with your carbon footprint and to comply with environmental regulations.
